

I am against mandating a broadcast flag in HDTV broadcast. Current HDTV owners like me will suffer financially from this. I already spent the money so I could watch TV in high definition and mandating new copyright technology into HDTV sets would cost me money to upgrade while not having any direct benefit to me. Also copyright protection systems are never secure for very long. Like DVD videos are now easily copied. So basically, the consumers of these products will not benefit from this technology and will ultimately be paying for it.
